Sharing Information to Combat Terrorism

Detective Heather Forsythe began her career as Deputy at the Victorville station under Mark Taylor, before she went to San Bernardino County and became a detective and head of the San Bernardino Chapter of the Terrorism Early Warning

Group. (TEWG) Along with Heather she was joined by her partner at the County, William Hogan and Riverside Chapter head of TEWG, Michele Nelson.

The group holds monthly meetings with a diverse membership, including Fire, Military, city staff members, medical personnel, educators, citizens and more. The group, which began in 2001, works to discuss problems in their sectors and have open communication, which is of high importance to fighting terrorism.

The group also works closely with the Joint Regional Intelligence

Center (JRIC), which provides TEWG with information on assessments from suspicious calls that have come in around the county, advisory reports, BOLO's (Be on the Look Out Bulletins), threat assessments and more. This allows the group to gather information and put pieces together from different parts of the County and State to determine if a plot is in development. One such example shared is in cases of propane tanks being stolen, will be a red flag for the group.

Another agency they work closely with is the Joint Terrorism Task Force (JTTF), which is located in the Riverside FBI Office. This organization investigates both domestic and international terrorism, and has access to numerous databases. In fact, a member of the San Bernardino County Sheriff Department, is in this organization, working closely with the FBI to keep a watchful eye for any local acts of terror.

Detective Forsythe stressed the importance of reporting anything that you see is not ordinary. In the case of both terrorism or an active shooter situation, some of the signs to look out for include someone taking photos of your building, calling and asking questions regarding security cameras at your location, a person testing your security by walking up to determine if they get stopped, impersonating a company employee, and rehearsing a "dry run" to see how long it would take to hit their target.

Of course, terrorism takes on many forms. Isis puts out glossy magazines, targeting young people to join their cause, and are directing their followers to just grab a knife, or just get into their car and drive through a crowd of people. This is why the Terrorism Early Warning Group and all their resource agencies work diligently together to share and compare information, to allow them to stay one step ahead of the terrorists.

To find out more information and to get involved, contact Detective Heather Forsythe at 909-387-3727.

Dwight's Writes

I know that I can sleep better at night knowing that Detective Heather Forsythe and her team are keeping an active watch on the potential threat of terrorism that seems to be more prevalent nowadays.

Thank you for your dedication to our county.

I was honored this week to welcome my friend, Louise Bevilacqua as the newest Victorville Rotarian! Louise was inducted by Mike Page and I was honored to be her sponsor. Louise is the DCB Branch Manager for both the La Paz and Adelanto locations and moved to the High Desert in 1984, directly from her home country of England. She is passionate on giving back to the community, as a board member for the Adelanto Chamber, High Desert Opportunity, the March of Dimes and now a Rotarian with our Club.

Russ Stringham gave us an update on the Water Project for schools in Ensenada. These water towers have been in the making for a couple of years and will provide drinking and sanitation to the children in Ensenada.

Russ, as well as Ben Tafoya had a conference call with Rotary International last week, and hope to get the funding needed by the end of April.

First Lady Trish Johnson was once again busy making birthday cookies for Rotarians Jim Barnes and Todd Sturges. Both were absent this week, so their cookies will be delivered.

Thanks are due to Dr. Ron Boyd, who has donated money to keep our Club Essay Contest continuing. We appreciate your dedication to the students of the Victor Valley.

Finally, my thought of the week is "Whatever Rotary may mean to us, to the world it will be known by the results it achieves." - Paul Harris

Spoon of Exemption

Steve Orr had an other week with the spoon and chose to pass the mic to his guest, the latest primary care physician at Heritage Victor Valley Medical Group.

We were introduced to Dr. Jay Rook. Jay is not a standard physician, but has a specialty that is unique to the High Desert. Heritage is more than just doctors, but has a strong focus on wellness as well as fitness. Dr. Rook focuses on 18 - 64 year olds in the area of athlete wellness, both semi-pro and professional athletes.

He is also a sub-specialist in nutrition and dietary counseling and non-surgical answers for athletic orthopedic issues. If you would like to see Dr. Jay Rook or any other physician at Heritage, please visit www.hvvmg.com.

Rotary Guests

This week Steve Orr brought two guests this week, Dr. Jay Rook from Heritage Victor Valley Medical Group and Tiffany Calvert from Oggi's in Apple Valley. Once again Al Castellucci had Nathan Bradway from Bradway Bug Police as his guest.

Due to Kevin Kane sending a press release to the Daily Press on this week's speaker, local residents Bob Wyatt and Louise Arevalo attended from reading about it in the paper. Speaking of the paper, reporter Shea Johnson and photographer James Quigg also attended to cover the story.

Finally, our stand-in this week was Melanie Lovingood for Robert Lovingood.

Fine Session

Mark Taylor was our Fine Master after threatening to fine quite a few Rotarians, only charged Russ Stringham $25 in celebration of his silver anniversary as a Rotarian and Al Castelucci $5 for mispronouncing his guest as Nathan "Bradbury" instead of Bradway.

RYLA 2017

RYLA is almost here! Teresa Coomes is getting everything set for this year's camp and will be conducting interviews for RYLA applicants and if you are interested in helping, please contact Teresa at tecoomes@cbbank.com.
